Confirmed rabid bats and raccoons

Herkimer County is reporting four cases of confirmed rabid animals, two bats in the town of German Flatts and two raccoons in the town of Frankfort. All were sent to Wadsworth Laboratory and confirmed to be infected with the rabies

Residents of Herkimer County are reminded that rabies is endemic in our county and surrounding counties. All bites or possible exposures need to be reported to your local health department. Exposures involving a bat or wildlife need to be reported so proper instruction can be provided for handling and testing purposes. An exposure to the rabies virus is fatal to people, pets and domesticated animals but very preventable. It is important that pets, including indoor animals, are vaccinated and kept up-to-date with their vaccinations to prevent infection. Our pets are a bridge between wildlife and us; by protecting them you are protecting yourself and others. An unvaccinated animal exposed to a positive rabid animal will require the decision of a six month quarantine or have to be euthanized. Both are completely avoidable if the animal is up to date on its rabies vaccination. Clinics are listed online. Visit our website for the 2018 rabies clinic schedule at www.herkimercounty.org or make an appointment with your veterinarian. In addition, you can find more information about rabies on the Center for Disease Control's website at www.cdc.gov/rabies.

If you have any questions or if you would like to pre-register for an upcoming rabies clinic, call Herkimer County Public Health at 315.867.1176.

Mohawk Valley Choral Society begins rehearsals

As it begins its 37th season, the Mohawk Valley Choral Society (MVCS) is inviting amateur and professional singers to join in preparation for its December concert of George Frederic Handel's oratorio "Messiah."

Randy Davis, who will be celebrating his 30th year as artistic director of the choral society, will conduct this concert.

Rehearsals will begin at 7 p.m. on Sept. 10 in the Vocal Music Room of Central Valley Academy in Ilion. Rehearsals will continue each Monday night until the concert.

Founded in 1982, the non-profit, self-sustaining MVCS is a non-audition choral group composed of both professional and amateur singers ranging in age from teenagers to those in their 80s.

Information about the choral society and its upcoming concert may be found on the "Members Information" page at the MVCS's website at www.mvchoral.org .

Further information may be obtained by calling 315.826.3092 or by emailing any questions to mail@mvchoral.org.

For over 37 years, the MVCS has brought classical and light classical vocal music to citizens of the Mohawk Valley. They have sung music by composers including J. S. Bach, John Rutter, Wolfgang Mozart, Aaron Copland and Moses Hogan.

Any singer who has an interest in choral singing, has Monday evenings free and is willing to commit to the weekly two-hour rehearsals is invited to join their neighbors and come sing with the MVCS.

Back-to-school ice breakers to ease first day fears

Parents and educators can sometimes underestimate children's anxiety over the dawn of a new school year. Many students feel nervous when wondering if their teachers will be nice or if they will make new friends. These worries may be compounded by the return to routine and the end of an enjoyable period of rest and relaxation.

In 2015, CNN polled campers at a summer day camp outside New York City. The campers were elementary school students who were asked about what they were most nervous about for the return to school. Homework, tests, competition, greater expectations, grades, and making new friends topped the list of fears.

To help students transition to the classroom with fewer worries, teachers and parents may want to initiate ice breakers and other stress-reducing interactions. Here are some ideas.

Buddy up

Many schools will give out classroom assignments a few days before the first day of school. Parents can investigate who is in their child's homeroom and initiate contact with the parents of one or more of those students. Collectively, parents can make a buddy plan for students to arrive to school together and enter the classroom as a team. Coordinate clothing colors or have students wear another unifying symbol. This may allay fears and make the first day of school more fun.

School selfie

Students can craft "school selfies" on a piece of paper using a smartphone image template. This selfie illustration will give the class key facts about each student and present an interesting, creative and enjoyable way for students to get to know one another.

Student word search

Word searches are entertaining and educational tools that can be put to use in the classroom. Parents or teachers can create word searches featuring the first names of all the students in the class. Children often enjoy searching for their own names, and then they can help others, opening up lines of communica-

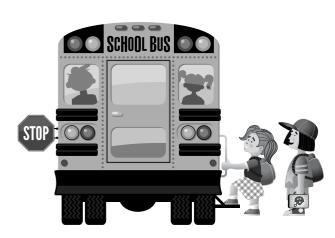

Word searches also can be customized for any subject. Therefore, if student names aren't desired, the theme can be classroom items or school terms.

Personal introductions

Students may worry about teachers mispronouncing their names or using a full name instead of a nickname. Rather than a traditional roll call, teachers can encourage students to introduce themselves to classmates, using their preferential name and including a brief synopsis of their interests and what makes them unique.

Teachers also can initiate other ice-breakers by giving students a sheet with various questions, which students then have to complete by asking around among the other students. For example, "Who has a pet fish?" or "Find someone who has blue eyes."

The first day of school can be difficult for some children. Fun activities and some extra effort from parents and teachers can make the return to the classroom less stressful

Whatchamacallits

Shoemakers, also known as cobblers or cordwainers, produce footwear from leather, wood, rubber, plastic, jute or other plant material. There is no specific time period that can claim the start of the handicraft of shoemaking, but the most basic footwear were sandals in the Mediterranean and Far East regions, either tied or woven together. In colder regions, a "boot" made out of a single piece of hide tied with a thong was the go-to. Wooden shoes were developed in medieval Europe, advantageous for protecting workers' feet in muddy and damp conditions.

Leather shoes rose to popularity in the 1600s. A traditional shoemaker then would measure a customer's feet and cut out upper leathers for the required size. The parts would be stitched together before the sole was assembled, made of soft leather for the inside and tougher leather for the outside. The insole would then be attached to a last, or a model of a foot often made of wood, which was used to form the shoe.

Over history more than 15 techniques of the art of sewing shoes have arisen. Some of these styles include pegged, welted, Norwegian, stitchdown, turnout, German sewn, moccasin, bolognese stitched and blake-stitched.

A shoe stitching machine was invented by American Lyman Blake in 1856 and perfected by 1864 which aided in the quicker production of shoes. By the end of the 1800s, however, the handicraft of shoemaking had become almost entirely mechanized making mass-produced shoes easier to find and more affordable, but they often lacked the uniqueness that a cobbler could holes for lacing. produce.

This large shoe - which is about 24 inches long – would have served as a practice piece for a cobbler's apprentice as they learned the finer points of stitching and sewing together a leather shoe. The practice shoe was often placed prominently in a cobbler's window or suspended above the shop door after it was completed, as a form of advertising. (We have used Monty, a 10-month-old Corgi, for scale reference.)

Traditional shoemakers are still at work today, especially in poorer parts of the world. Modern machinery used by cobblers today include die cutting tools to cut the shapes and grommet machines to punch the

In other regions of the world, cobblers still have niche markets, more often in the repair business than in production.

Fun fact: the patron saint of shoemakers is Saint Crispin. who preached to the Gauls by day and made shoes by night in the 3rd century AD.

Chow Line: Simple suppers make mealtimes fun and easy for families, kids

I'm a mom of twin preschoolers and want to make sure that I teach them healthy eating habits at an early age. How I can do that and stay within a modest food budget?

It's wonderful that you want to establish healthy eating habits in your children starting when they are young. Research has shown that ensuring good nutritional habits, particularly early on, can help prevent childhood obesity and other chronic diseases.

In addition to having a healthy weight, establishing healthy eating habits in children can help them have more energy and happier moods, and also can help them have those habits for the rest of their lives, experts say.

One way to help instill better eating habits in your children is to take advantage of great programs out there like Simple Suppers. The new free nutrition program created by researchers at The Ohio State University teaches families how to establish healthy eating behaviors without having to spend a lot of money at the grocery store.

The 10 lessons in the Simple Suppers program provide options that address both the benefits and constraints of healthy family mealtime routines.

The program utilizes balanced meals with low-cost ingredients that are easily attainable by families and encourages children to be involved in food and meal preparation with their families, said Carolyn Gunther, an associate professor of human sciences and state specialist for Ohio State University Extension.

While some of the program's curriculum is available online, OSU Extension educators will soon begin offering in-person classes for families across Ohio, she said. OSU Extension is the outreach arm of the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences at Ohio State (CFAES).

The program focuses on establishing healthy family mealtime routines for improved diet and weight status, Gunther said.

"Family meals can be a good way to help kids have better eating habits," she said. "The lessons covered in the program teach families how to manage their resources when planning and preparing meals using budget- and time-saving strategies, how to compare various food options and sizes for meals, and how to get everyone involved in establishing healthy family mealtime routines."

The Simple Suppers lesson plans cover the following topics:

- Making family mealtime fun
- Planning family meals on a budget
- Timesaving strategies for family meals
- Connecting with children through meals
- $\bullet$  Planning well-balanced family meals
- $\bullet$  Rethinking your drink
- Making healthy cooking tasty and easy
- Serving and eating healthy portions
- Eating healthy away from home
- Planning fun and healthy snacks

The program is offered to the entire family, with each class directed to either children or adults.

For example, during lesson one, "Making family

Little Falls graduate recipient of two area scholarships

LITTLE FALLS – Cassie Tinkler, a graduate of Little Falls Central School, has been named the recipient of two scholarships, the Frederika Vickers Conrad and Dr. Joseph W. Conrad Scholarship in the amount of $3,000 and the Dr. Bernard J. Burke Scholarship in the amount of $1,000

Dr. Sue Conrad Quinby and Roger P. Quinby established the scholarship fund in 1973 in memory of Frederika Vickers Conrad and her husband, Dr. Joseph W. Conrad. The Quinbys specified that the income from this fund must be used to award a scholarship to a deserving resident of the Little Falls Central School District who is interested in pursuing a career in medicine, paramedicine, nursing, laboratory, technical work, hospital administration or any allied health field. The winner is chosen by the Scholarship Committee of the Little Falls Hospital Board of Trustees.

The Bernard J. Burke Scholarship was established in 1997 by the Little Falls Hospital Medical Staff in memory of Dr. Bernard J. Burke. The scholarship is presented annually to students who are pursuing a career in medicine. The winner is chosen by Little Falls Hospital Medical Staff.

Tinkler, the daughter of John and Vicki Tinkler, graduated in June from Little Falls Central School District. She has chosen to follow a career in the health field as a Physician Assistant through LeMoyne's Direct Entry Program. "I have chosen to follow this career path due to my personal experiences with biology and health care," said Tinkler. "I grew up on a small dairy farm where biology and the health care of animals has been a prevalent aspect of my life."

VRS commemorates National Assisted Living Week

HERKIMER - A weeklong celebration kicks off on Sunday, Sept. 9, 2018. Valley Residential Services (VRS) staff and residents are joining tens of thousands of assisted living communities across the country for the festivities. National Assisted Living Week continues through Saturday, Sept. 15 and VRS is honoring this year's theme, "Capture the Moment."

"Often, it's the little, everyday moments in assisted living between staff and residents that deepen bonds, enrich lives and improve care," said Jennifer Miller, administrator of VRS. "Our community's seniors are unique individuals who still have so much to give, and we are honored to serve them during this pivotal time

"Capture the Moment" hopes to inspire assisted living residents to enjoy the present while still celebrating the past. Many adults 65 and older battle isolation and loneliness as they age, which can impact their mental, emotional and physical health. Community engagement may be the key to combatting this issue. VRS offers life-enriching social activities to help residents continue to lead fulfilling lives.

There will be a variety of activities offered during this momentous week, including a Grandparents Day tea, a proclamation delivered by Village of Herkimer elected officials, a performance from the VHS Bell Choir, shared family photos, a "Make Your Own Sundae" event in the courtyard with music by Anthony LaBarbara and more. For the full agenda of activities and more information about National Assisted Living Week, call the Director of Community Life at VRS at 315 219 3239

Heading soccer ball puts youths at risk

Dear Dr. Roach: Can "heading" the ball in soccer cause a concussion? I have grandchildren who play soccer, and I am concerned. — G.W.H.

Answer: The evidence is mounting that repeated trauma to the brain can contribute to a type of brain injury called chronic traumatic encephalopathy, which is seen frequently in boxers and football players. However, there is more and more evidence that soccer players also may get this injury, and it correlates to the number of headers players do.

Since younger brains may be more susceptible to injuries, and kids have relatively larger heads and weaker necks than adults, the Sports Legacy Institute recommends against heading the ball until the age of 14.

Dear Dr. Roach: I am a 75-year-old woman with a lot of hot flashes. I heard that maca root is good for treating these. I have been taking it for two years, and feel like it has really helped me. Is this safe? — J.F.

Answer: Maca root, a dietary staple in Peru, has been touted as a treatment for both sexual performance and menopausal symptoms. One review found limited evidence for benefit in sexual function, but I could not find any study looking at its effectiveness in menopausal symptoms. Fortunately, it has few, if any, adverse effects and might be worth a try for those who haven't had benefit from or can't take other treatments. I have to remind you again that you may not be getting what you think you are buying, as oversight on supplements is limited.

Dear Dr. Roach: I was diagnosed with peripheral artery disease in 1991. What kind of test is recommended for checking up on this? Can it be cured? — J.C.

Answer: "Peripheral artery disease" is the general term used for cholesterol plaques in the arteries, which can block blood flow. The most common symptom is pain with walking, usually after a specific exercise duration, which is relieved with rest. However, since these blockages can occur in any artery, PAD can cause many different symptoms, such as pain after eating (when the blockages are in the arteries to the gut). The disease most commonly is diagnosed by noninvasive studies, like a Doppler ultrasound of the arteries or using one blood pressure cuff on the thigh and another on the arm. Sometimes, an angiogram is necessary.

Since it's really the same disease as coronary artery disease and cerebrovascular disease, people with PAD are at much higher risk for heart attack and stroke. Although we cannot, in general, cure PAD, we have many different kinds of treatments to reduce risk of catastrophic events and to improve symptoms.

Treatment starts with modifying existing risk factors, especially smoking, which is the most powerful modifiable risk. A proper diet that cuts down on excess unhealthy fats and simple sugars is important. A monitored exercise program, gradually increasing in duration and intensity, can have a dramatic effect on function. Most people will benefit from statin drugs and anti-platelet drugs, such as aspirin.

The proactive parent's checklist for back-to-school success

(BPT) — A new school year is quickly approaching, and while you probably have supply lists and bus schedules in hand, there are a few other things parents should tackle to get a head start on the back-to-school season. Prepare kids for the best school year yet by handling these important tasks that sometimes are overlooked during the hectic summer.

Routines

Before the school year starts, begin building a routine so children can adjust properly. This means structuring activities so kids know what to expect, including healthy meals at the same time each day and a regular bedtime.

By taking a few proactive steps now, both parents and children can be well prepared for the start of a great new school year.

Getting enough sleep is critical to students' well-being and ability to learn, says Dr. Suresh Kotagal, pediatric sleep expert at Mayo Clinic Children's Center. He suggests establishing a bedtime routine before school starts to help children fall asleep and get a good night's rest. He adds that children rest better if they skip caffeine after dinner, get regular exercise, turn off electronic devices an hour before bedtime, and silence phones so text messages or alerts don't disrupt sleep.

Vaccinations

Dr. Robert Jacobson, Mayo Clinic Children's Center pediatrician and vaccine specialist, advises parents to ensure their child has recommended vaccinations and to be aware of changes to those recommendations. He suggests parents contact their family physician or visit the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's online registry to stay informed of the recommended school admission vaccine requirements for their child.

For example, children can now be vaccinated for human papillomavirus (HPV), at age 11, rather than having to wait until they are 16 years of age. What's more, some vaccines are now more easily administered. Jacobson says, "We've combined the measles-mumpsrubella vaccine with the chickenpox vaccine so a single dose will cover all four of those diseases."

Medical records

If your child is starting a new school or after-school program, you may be required to supply medical records or vaccination forms. Doctor's offices should be able to supply this to you at no charge simply by calling or stopping by and filling out a request, just make sure to allow a week or more for processing.

By reviewing this record you can also verify if your child is up-to-date on vaccinations and wellness visits. "It's very easy to fall behind and a simple phone call to your primary care practitioner will assure you that your children are up-to-date or whether you need to make an appointment," says Jacobson.

Anxiety

Heading back to school is exciting and a little nerve-wracking. For some children, it can fuel anxiety, which parents can help get ahead of by taking proactive measures.

"Some kids are more anxious than others, and transitions like going back to school can be more difficult for them," says Dr. Stephen Whiteside, psychiatrist with the Mayo Clinic Children's Center. "Talking to them and preparing them ahead of time by doing things such as visiting the schools and meeting teachers can be beneficial."

Bullying

One reason a child may have anxiety about heading back to school is he or she experienced bullying previously. Mayo Clinic Children's Center psychologist Dr. Bridget Biggs says bullying comes in many forms: physical, verbal, emotional, social and online. Biggs says creating a culture of respect in and out of the classroom is key to bullying prevention.

Before school starts, ask your child about their concerns. Learn about what happened and discuss how to respond if it happens again in the new school year (for example, walk away or get help from a trusted adult or peer). Build up your child's self-esteem so they have confidence to handle difficult situations. Finally, reach out to teachers to build a team mentality.

By taking a few proactive steps now, both parents and children can be well prepared for the start of a great new school year. For more tips on back-to-school and pediatric health, visit us at mayoclinic.org.

Make the most of your home improvement dollars

Home improvement projects provide homeowners with a chance to put their own stamp on their homes. In addition, many such projects make homes safer and, in some instances, more ecofriendly.

The opportunity to make a home more comfortable, safer and/or more eco-friendly entices many homeowners to open their wallets. In fact, the Home Improvement Research Institute estimates that the home improvement products market will grow by more than 5 percent in 2018.

Homeowners might experience some sticker shock when researching home improvement projmates from contractors. But there are ways for budget-conscious homeowners to transform their homes and still make the most of their home improvement dollars.

• Do your homework. Each year, Remodeling magazine publishes its "Cost vs. Value Report," a comprehensive study of 21 popular remodeling projects in 149 United States markets. The report notes the value each project retains at resale in 100 markets across the country. Homeowners who want to get the strongest return on investment can access the "Cost vs. Value Report" (www.remodeling.how.ne

t) to see which home improvement projects are best suited for them.

• Do some of the labor yourself. Homeowners willing to swing a hammer also can stretch their home improvement dollars. For example, the home improvement resource This Old House® notes that homeowners willing to do their own demolition before the contractors arrive can save substantial amounts of money. A professional contractor may charge $1,000 to demo a 200square-foot deck, but This Old House estimates that homeowners who demo their own decks may spend only $450 (for the dumpster rental and parking permit).

• Hire a consultant. The DIY movement is incredibly popular, no doubt thanks television channels such as HGTV and the DIY Network. Homeowners with DIY experience may be able to complete projects on their own with little consultation from professional contractors. Some contractors may not offer consulting services, however. The consultation route, which typically requires paying licensed contractors hourly fees to offer guidance, should only be considered by homeowners with legitimate DIY skills, for whom this option can be a great way to save money.

• Schedule renovations during homeownerfriendly times of year. Summer and fall tend to be contractors' busy seasons, and homeowners will likely pay more for projects during this time of year. If possible, delay starting projects until right after the new year, when contractors aren't so busy and might be more flexible with pricing.

To Your Good Health

by Keith Roach, M.D. Bodybuilder son takes steroids

Dear Dr. Roach: My 23-year-old son is a bodybuilder, and much to my dismay, he takes steroids. I know he takes testosterone, and I don't know what else. How will this affect him? — Anon.

Answer: Testosterone has many bad long-term effects, and he really should stop it. As a resident, I took care of a seemingly very healthy, very muscular 30-yearold man with terrible heart failure due to a heart attack. Many similar reports have led to suspicion that steroids taken for bodybuilding increase risk of heart attack and even sudden death. There appear to be many other long-term effects, including neuropsychiatric effects of anger and aggressive behavior. They also may reduce sperm count and affect fertility.

I don't know what else he may be taking, but I would strongly urge him to evaluate all supplements carefully.

Dear Dr. Roach: I was a healthy female until I had an injury to my back. I experience pain and tingling in my right side, going down the back of my right leg. Sitting is especially painful, as is standing in one place for too long.

Now the pain has started in my left side also. I have tried chiropractors, acupuncture, physical therapy, epidural shots and pain pills. I also had two laminectomies (decompression surgery on the spinal canal) on L4/L5 last year, with no relief from the pain. Upon seeing another neurosurgeon, I have been told that I have some large Tarlov cysts (1 cm).

There does not seem to be a great amount of information about these on the internet, plus I am not sure what information out there is accurate. One doctor on the internet is all about having surgery on them. The neurosurgeon I am seeing does not want to do surgery just yet. He says that surgery does not always bring about pain relief.

Can you share some information about these Tarlov cysts and what can be done for the continued back and leg pain?

Dealing with this for several years has caused me much emotional distress and depression. — F.H.

Answer: Tarlov cysts, also called perineurial cysts, occur along the lining of the spinal cord and nerve roots. In one study, in 500 people with MRI scans, 23 had Tarlov cysts, but only five had any symptoms from them. In this study, the cysts were drained by a needle, which relieved the pain, although the pain usually came back as the cysts refilled with fluid.

I agree with your neurosurgeon that surgery on these does not guarantee success. Since you have had two surgeries and multiple types of therapies that haven't worked, I can understand your frustration. It might be worth talking to the neurosurgeon about a trial of draining the cysts to see if that helps the symptoms.

The Kitchen Diva

by Angela Shelf Medearis Cucumbers, make way for summer squash

I vividly remember when I first fell in love with summer squash. My newly planted kitchen garden was full of all types of herbs, tomatoes, peppers and long, vibrant green squash vines containing beautiful, edible yellow flowers. The bell-shaped blossoms preceded an abundant crop of summer squash. We had so much squash that I quickly learned several delicious ways to prepare it.

Summer squash are members of the gourd family and include zucchini, cocozelle, yellow squash (crooked and straight) and pattypan, also called scalloped and scallopini.

Summer squash is available yearround, but is best in the warm months. The squash should be harvested when the rind is tender and the flesh is sweet. To select the perfect summer squash at the grocery store, look for ones that are medium-sized, with shiny, unblemished, slightly tender rinds. The larger ones may be fibrous with hard rinds and seeds, while the smaller ones may not have developed much flavor.

Summer squash is very fragile and should be handled with care, as small punctures and drops of water will lead to decay. They should be stored in the vegetable bin of the refrigerator, unwashed and in a perforated plastic bag for no more than 3-5 days. Wash the squash immediately before cooking.

Squash can be frozen, but it will be soft, making it more suitable for dishes like casseroles where crispness isn't important. To prepare squash for freezing, cut off both ends, and either cut it into cubes or slices. Blanch it for 2 minutes in hot water. You also can freeze grated summer squash.

Summer squash is low in calories, but the nutrients are in the peel, so never peel summer squash. Squash is a good source of vitamin C, magnesium, vitamin A, dietary fiber, potassium, copper, folate, phosphorus, omega-3 fatty acids, vitamins B-1, B-2 and B-6, calcium, zinc, niacin and protein.

Squash is deliciously versatile and can be prepared in casseroles, as croquettes, stir-fried, stuffed, baked, boiled or pickled, as outlined in this delicious recipe for Spicy Summer Squash Refrigerator Pickles or used as a "noodle" in my Summer Squash Noodle Salad.

Move over, cucumbers! Summer squash is in season!

Spicy Summer Squash Refrigerator Pickles

- 9 sprigs fresh cilantro
- 3 large cloves garlic, peeled and halved
- 3 teaspoons mixed peppercorns
- 1 1/2 teaspoons coriander seeds
- 3 teaspoons crushed red pepper flakes
- 1 1/2 pounds yellow squash and/or zucchini, sliced into thin rounds.

- 1/3 cup thinly sliced sweet onion
- 1 1/4 cup apple cider vinegar
- 1 1/4 cup water
- 2 teaspoons kosher salt
- 2 1/2 tablespoons honey or agave syrup
- 1. In a large glass bowl that holds about 2 quarts, add the cilantro, garlic, peppercorns, coriander, red pepper flakes, zucchini and onion. Set aside.
- 2. In a small, non-corrosive saucepan over medium-high heat, bring vinegar, water, salt and honey to a boil. Pour hot mixture over contents in the glass bowl, pressing down on the vegetables so that brine covers them completely. Let it cool on the counter to room temperature.
- 3. Transfer the squash pickles and the rest of the ingredients into a 2-quart glass jar with a tight-fitting lid. Cover and refrigerate for at least 4 hours, or 2 days for maximum flavor. Keeps in refrigerator for 2 months. Makes 6 cups.

Summer Squash Noodle Salad

This preparation for squash is a delicious change from a green salad. It keeps well in the refrigerator and holds up to the summer heat for backyard gatherings or pic-

For the vinaigrette:

- 1/4 cup fresh lime juice
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 tablespoon honey or agave syrup
- 1 tablespoon apple cider vinegar
- 3 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
- 2 tablespoons dried Italian seasoning

- 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1 teaspoon ground black pepper
  - 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- For the salad:

3 medium-sized, yellow summer squash or green zucchini or a combination of both.

- 1 small red bell pepper, seeded and diced
  - 1 large tomato, cored and diced
- 1/2 purple onion, thinly sliced
- 2 stalks celery, sliced
- 1 cup corn kernels (fresh or frozen and thawed)
- 1 (15-ounce) can garbanzo beans or chickpeas, drained and rinsed
  - 1 cup fresh basil leaves, chopped
- 1 cup flat leaf parsley, chopped
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1. Rinse unpeeled squash or zucchini. Julienne using a knife, cut into strips using a Y-shaped peeler or into noodles using a spiralizer.
- 2. Whisk together all of the ingredients for the vinaigrette in a small bowl until well-combined. Set aside.
- 3. In a large bowl, mix together the squash, bell pepper, tomato, onion, celery, corn, garbanzo beans, basil, parsley, salt and pepper. Drizzle the squash mixture with the vinaigrette and toss together to coat. Cover and refrigerate to allow flavors to meld. Mix again before serving. Serves

Donna's Day: Creative family fun

by Donna Erickson

One last hurrah for watermelon

As summer wanes, I'm all for bringing on one last hurrah for watermelon. It's such a convenient, "good for you" cooldown snack that quenches thirst and satisfies the sweet tooth, all in one. Refreshing with a squeeze of lime, or kicked up with a dusting of ground chili pepper and salt, it's versatile and fun to eat. No wonder it's hard to bid adieu to the flavorful, locally grown varieties until next vear.

Think "watermelon" as you plan Labor Day weekend get-togethers and afterschool snacks for the kids. And be choosy. Before you and your child hoist one out of a bin at your market, take note. The best feel heavy for their size. Also, look for a field spot, a creamy yellow-colored splotch. Then, knock on it and listen for a deep, hollow (not dull) sound. When it passes the ripeness test, bring it home and get inspired. Here are some ideas:

Carve it

Don't wait until Halloween to display your creative carving skills. Make an eye-catching melon basket for serving a fruit salad or fruit kebabs.

Slightly trim off one end of a washed melon so that it stands upright. Slice off the other end 1/4 of the way down, then scoop out the flesh with a melon baller.

Use pumpkin-carving tools or paring knife to carve patterns or words on the outside without cutting through the rind. Cut zigzags around the rim, if you wish. Refill cavity with fruit salad, and garnish with fresh mint for a spectacular presentation.

Drink it

Make a big pitcher of "Watermelon Citrus Cooler." Mix seedless watermelon chunks with 4 tablespoons frozen limeade concentrate, 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice and 1 1/2 cups crushed ice in a blender.

Let your child rub the rims of chilled, tall glasses with a lemon wedge. Swirl rims lightly in a plate of sugar for a tangy sip when you drink the cooler.

Freeze it

Cut 3 cups of watermelon flesh into chunks. Remove seeds and liquefy in a blender. Pour into ice-cube trays and freeze. Toss the cubes in a glass of juice or sparkling water with an after-school snack. Garnish with a whole strawberry or thin, triangular slice of watermelon with the pointed end slid onto the rim of the glass.

Cogar Gallery to exhibit "Structures" by Rainer Maria Wehner

HERKIMER - "Structures" by Rainer Maria Wehner will be on display at Herkimer College's Cogar Gallery Monday, Sept. 10 through Friday, Nov. 2. An artist's reception will be held on Friday, Sept. 14 from 5:30 -7:30 p.m. in the Cogar Gallery.

Wehner was born in Munich, Germany, and grew up in Bamberg in North Bavaria. He completed two graduate degrees, one in art at the Academy of Fine Arts in Karlsruhe and the other in art history at the University of Karlsruhe. In 1991, he moved to Berlin and eventually to the U.S., now residing in Utica, NY. He has exhibited at the Houghton House Gallery in Geneva, NY, the Munson-Williams-Proctor Art Institute in Utica, NY, the SUNY Institute of Technology in Utica, NY, and the Schweinfurth Museum in Auburn, NY. His work is in the permanent collections of Utica College and the Munson-Williams-Proctor Arts Institute.

The exhibit "Structures" is based on the structures of handwriting and those of the human body through X-rays, combined with the elements of language.

The Cogar Gallery is open to the public free of charge Monday - Friday from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. when the college is open.

Folk-art furniture with the original paint sells for much more than a repainted, stripped or even unpainted piece. This cupboard with original yellow on the outside and red on the inside brought $1,140 at auction, far more than the $250 to $400 estimate.

laroid Land cameras were sold in 1948. They were named after Edwin Land, who invented the instant camera and demonstrated it in 1947. The name "Land" wasn't used on Polaroid cameras after Edwin Land retired in 1982. Film and batteries for old Polaroid cameras can be bought on Amazon and other sites. A Polaroid 350 model, which was made from 1969 to 1971, in perfect condition, sells online for about $50 to $75.

- 9: Could my silver clown pin with enamel decoration really be made by Tiffany & Co.? That is what it says on the back, and I saw a similar pin in an auction ad recently.
- A: Yes. Tiffany & Co. made a series of pins as part of the Gene Moore Circus group about 1990. The juggling clown with polkadot pants recently sold for $976 at a New York auction. They have come down in price since 2000.

by Terry and Kim Kovel Folk-art cupboard

Most Americans in the 17th and early 18th centuries had very small houses with no clothes closets and little storage space. Storage consisted of built-in corners, shelf units and chests, often located under eaves or stairs. Odd-shaped cupboards were made to fit into the space. They did not use the wall as part of the cabinet. A piece was made so it could be moved. Folk-art cupboards of all kinds made before Victorian times are popular with collectors. The most efficient cupboard is made from square or rectangular sections. The simple panel door framed by four narrow boards is preferred. Even the sides are made from rectangular panels.

In 2016, Garth's Auctions of Ohio sold an "under-the-stairs" cupboard. It was made of pine and painted a mustard color finish. The three doors in the front are made with applied molding to match the panels on the side. The inside has a red wash. The color and condition made this cabinet a popular auction item. Even though there was no maker's identity, it sold for $1,140, several times estimate. An oddly shaped piece like this often sells for a low price.
