2nd Annual from 2

that were important in the history of America as well as an opportunity to speak with people who have studied the American Revolution for most of their lives. With more than 160 attending the Conference, it is clear that there is still an interest in our country's founding.

The first day of tours covered the Western portion of the Mohawk Valley. This brought attendees to the Fort Plain Museum, where they could gaze on artifacts found in the area and see a scaled down model of the Blockhouse. The Blockhouse was built by Marinus Willett to turn the hilltop at the fort into a fortified defense. Next on the tour was the General Herkimer home in Little Falls, which is an English Georgian style mansion that was home to General Herkimer. General Herkimer is most noted for his bravery in the battle of Oriskany, in which he was mortally wounded. At the Nellis Tavern, built in 1747, the group was able to see a common resting point of those on their way through the Mohawk Valley, which was noted for its large number of taverns and hospitality. Next the tour went on to Fort Klock, where volunteers dressed in Revolution Period attire gave tours, showed how to use a loom, make wooden shingles, and most importantly, shot at Redcoats. Fort Klock, built in 1750 as a fortified homestead by Johannes Klock, is known mostly for being a safe haven in times of turmoil and the Battle of Klock's Field. The tour then went to the Stone Arabia Churches. The Reformed Dutch Church was organized in 1711 and the Stone Arabia Lutheran Church which was built in 1729. The day ended with a wine and cheese reception at the Fort Plain Museum.

The second day of tours covered the Eastern portion of the Mohawk Valley. The first stop was the Fort Johnson Historic Landmark, which was built in 1749 out of limestone and was fortified to its current standing during the French and Indian Wars. Sir William Johnson was the British Superintendent of Indian Affairs and noted hero of the Battle of Lake George.

The next stop brought the group to Fort Hunter to the Schoharie Crossing State Historic Site, which is where a fort and Anglican Church was requisitioned and built in 1712.

Hello Again,

Was this man incompetent, slow minded, careless with words or—based on modern day political correctness—just not with it?

This is what that man said, "It is impossible to rightly govern a nation without GOD and the Bible."

Naturally we all know his name—George Washington—the First President of the United States. George Washington took the oath of office with his right hand on a bible and kissed the bible afterward. Subsequent presidents, up to and including Harry Truman, followed suit. Dwight Eisenhower even said a prayer.

Now, political correctness has taken place of the Holy Bible. Mention of God or Jesus Christ can no longer be found in the archive of public records, or be used in public buildings. Even public grounds can no longer be showplaces for items that would indicate Christian faith or belief. For example, there are no Christmas lights on government property. It has been said that those who choose not to believe in Jesus Christ have their rights. I guess that also means that we who do believe have lost our rights or should not or do not have any rights.

Let's add a little sick Irish Blarney to see if it would satisfy our Supreme Court members.

Instead of allowing public religious prayers in our high schools, let's imagine the following happening. Teenager Patrick Murphy has been selected to be a speaker at a mixed grade and high school gathering. Pat, being the rebel he is known to be and realizing he cannot mention Jesus or God, decides to run a little test to see what the school administration will do. He opens his talk with, "Let's pray." "Dear St. Pat – your birthday is coming up next week and we want you to know what an important day it has become in our godless society. St. Pat please do not let our citizens run out of poteen (Irish Whiskey), green beer, or a good Irish meal of corned beef with boiled potatoes and cabbage. Amen."

I will leave the remainder of this blarney up to you, the reader. What do you think? Would the Supreme Court on down to the school principal claim it is illegal in a public place to carry on a chat with the dead St. Patrick? Possibly would it infringe on some persons' rights? (Hello Again's bit – how can any American deny that St. Pat did not exist when nearly all Americans celebrate his birthday?) Can millions of Americans be wrong?

To answer the opening question concerning George Washington—in my opinion, based on the lasting results, which we are now privileged to live with and enjoy—Washington may have been the most intelligent non-political politician ever to live in this country. He could have easily become a dictator or even king. He chose to be a leader and faithful servant of the new country, and he believed in God and depended on the teachings of the Holy Bible.

Isn't it strange that we hold men such as George Washington in great respect? Men who openly stated they believed in God. This would include most of our forefathers.

We have a file copy photograph of President Ronald Reagan being administered the oath of office by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger on Jan. 21, 1985. His wife, Nancy, was holding an open bible while Reagan placed his hand on the bible.

In another file copy photograph of President Barack Obama being administered the oath of office by Chief Justice John Roberts, on Jan. 21, 2009 there is no Bible in the picture.

Now a very small minority has been able to have all reference to God, Jesus Christ, or any other form of belief or religion removed from our public education system, government property and documents.

The philosophy on which we depend and should live by is based on the teachings of the Holy Bible.

A convicted prisoner, while standing before a firing squad, was blindfolded. The officer in charge asked, "Would you like one last cigarette?" "No thanks," he said, "I'm trying to quit."

I want the maximum insurance on the factory I can get, said the businessman. Do you want fire insurance or hurricane insurance?", the agent asked, "Fire insurance, stupid, how can I start a hurricane?"

Speaking with her mother and pastor, the bride-to-be said her future husband doesn't even believe in hell. The Pastor shrugged, while the mother said, "Marry him honey, between the two of us we will convince him."

While chatting with a pastor friend, I told him my wife and I had a disagreement and she said, "I'm not going to speak to you again for a month." The pastor asked, Why are you so excited?" I told him the 30 days starts tomorrow.

The three-wheeled red Spyder bike is chafing at the bit, anxious to visit friends and wave hello. We are both hoping that today will be the last of the wind and the temperature will be at least over 70 degrees.

Be sure to wave.

I know that some say that God is dead. Don't believe it – I had a nice talk with him this morning. When was the last time you had a chat with him and asked him for help or thanked him for this great country and your family?

2nd Annual from 8

The Johnson Hall State Historic Site was next on the tour. This is where the aforementioned Sir William Johnson and Molly Brant lived, conducted business and held diplomatic meetings. This led the group to the Drumm House, one of the first six buildings erected by Sir William Johnson as the first public schoolhouse west of the Hudson River.

Next on the tour was the Tryon County Courthouse, which is the oldest colonial courthouse still in use in the U.S. The first court general session was held Sept. 8, 1772.

This brought the tour to the Colonial Cemetery that holds the remains of many prominent citizens of the Colonial and Revolutionary periods. At the Fort Johnstown Jail, spectators saw the jail that was used during the Colonial and Revolutionary times.

Conover and Fritz Traudt showed tour-goers the Van Alstyne Homestead Museum in Canajoharie. Photos by Michael Wren

Next was the Johnstown Battlefield, which is the location of the last battle of the American Revolution between the American forces under Colonel Willett and the British forces under Major Ross and Captain Butler. The Montgomery County History and Archives, built in 1772, was the next stop.

The tour ended with a trip to the National Kateri Shrine and Indian Museum which shed light on the large Indian population in the Mohawk Valley and gave an insight into their way of life as well as how the colonists affected the area. After a break for a late lunch at the Winner's Circle, the group went to a Meet and Greet at FMCC with the following day's presenters and speakers.

Among the conference speakers were Keynote speaker, Don Hagist, Editor of the Journal of the American Revolution, Bruce M. Venter, author of "The Battle of Hubbardton: The Rear Guard Action That Saved America," James Kirby Martin, author of "Benedict Arnold, Revolutionary Hero: An American Warrior Reconsidered", Edward G. Lengel, author of "First Entrepreneur: How George Washington Built His and the Nation's Prosperity, Lois Huey who cowrote "Molly Brant A Legacy Of Her Own".

If you are interested in visiting these historic sites and learning more about our history-rich area, the Third Annual Conference of the American Revolution in the Mohawk Valley will be held June 8-11, 2017.

Military vehicles, WWII planes, OESJ Marching Wolves, floats, horses and patriotic music accompanied 100 marching veterans in the 2016 St. Johnsville Memorial Day Parade.

St. Johnsville Morris J. Edwards Post #168 Commander Anthony Susi, reported 100 veterans marching and riding in the parade and throngs of people lined the streets clapping as the veterans passed by.

"Today, out of all days, we need to put aside our disagreements and strife, and take time to remember those who are too often out of sight, but never out of our hearts and minds," said guest speaker Dawn Lamphere at a ceremony in the Soldiers and Sailors Park, following the parade. "Today, as a community and nation, we share a great common sorrow as we publicly honor the best and noblest of us all. Memorial Day is a day of conflicting emotions for each of us; a blend of pride and mournfulness, gratitude and loss, overshadowed by a deep and profound sense of patriotism."

Lamphere remarked that Memorial Day is the day all Americans, as one body, stand up and say "We remember you."

She reminded attendees that President Thomas Jefferson wrote "the price of freedom is eternal vigilance".

"To that end," said Lamphere, "never forget, never let your children forget, how fortunate we are to have a voluntary force of men and women willing to safeguard our freedom so we can rest soundly at night."

"What happens long after the yellow ribbons fade to white, the last note is blown for Taps, and the flag waving has died down?" She asked. "Does our obligation to remember end there? Absolutely not! Our honored dead and veterans deserve better! The defenders of this nation fulfilled their duty and obligation to us, and we have an equal duty to honor and fulfill our obligations to them. To do anything less is a betrayal. Let our every deed and act be guided by the memory of those who gave their lives for our freedom. May their sacrifice continue to inspire us and strengthen our resolve."

Lamphere quoted the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, who said, "In the end, we will remember not the words of our enemies, but the silence of our friends."

"On this day, of all days," said Lamphere, "that silence is deafening. As we leave this place, listen to those now silent voices of the fallen, who across the generations, call out to us from beyond the grave. Listen to their silence not with your ears, but rather with your hearts. Listen to their silence and remember."

A roll call to honor fallen war heroes, a 21-gun salute and Taps were part of the ceremony.

Local gals compete at NYS National Barrel Horse Association Finals

by Elizabeth A. Tomlin

Memorial Day weekend means different things to different people. For some it is a patriotic memorial. For others it is a long weekend with BBQs and swimming. But for a few local ladies Memorial Day weekend is a chance to show off their National Barrel racing skills on their top-speed steeds.

Christie Sanders, of Sprakers, a stay-at-home-mom with a 3-month-old baby, a herd of beef cows and other assorted farm animals to contend with, began horseback riding as a 10-year-old.

"I originally started riding English show horses and took lessons with a couple different people over the years. I remember watching the NBHA barrel race during the Fonda Fair and knew that is what I needed to do."

Sanders says she knew if she was going to run with the NBHA she needed to "step up" her game. By the time she was a senior in high school she was training I'm Miss Doc Holliday, a friend's horse that was about to take Sanders all the way to the NBHA World Championships in 2012.

"I would have to say turning that third barrel down in Georgia at the World Championships was probably my favorite experience," Sanders said. "That was equivalent to running at the National Finals Rodeo for me and I can't wait to go back down there again!"

Now Sanders runs WJFS Absolute Dream, also trained by Sanders. "She came up for sale as an unbroken 3-year-old, so we bought her and started working her. As a 5-year-old, she also qualified for NBHA World Championships, but she was so green on barrels we didn't go."

Sanders says she grew up in 4-H and it taught her discipline and respect for others, "whether they are animals or humans."

Canajoharie resident, Tina Krieger grew up riding horses.

"Horses have always been my passion.." says Krieger. "I love raising and training them, it creates a bond that some people never get to feel. When I am at a barrel racing competition, I know when I ask my horses to perform they will give me everything they can."

Krieger says her horses are her therapists. "They make me forget the stresses of life, and give me peace when things seem to be going wrong."

Marcia Shults, also of Canajoharie, says she had a great weekend at the NYS Finals with her horse Hailey. "I'm super proud of my little girl Hailey! She's improving so much! We went from just starting to run barrels last year, running times around 18 (seconds). She took me back to the finals today and we ran a 16.0!" Shults says that without all of the help and support from her friends and family, she couldn't do it.

Samantha Eyster, also from Canajoharie, is the NBHA NY State Director. Eyster says there are barrel meets at the Fonda Fairgrounds every Wednesday evening and anyone interested is invited to come and watch or get involved. "We have a buckle series that people can join and run for awards at the end of the season, and a large add money race. Last year it was $700."

Marcia Baker Shults of Canajoharie who ran a run of 16.0. with her horse, Hailey.

Whatchamacallits

Since it is the start of camping season, our Whatchamacallit this week is something that can be used on the go. If any of our readers were boy or girl scouts, this will be a familiar item.

It is travel tumbler or collapsible cup with carrying case. The tumbler is made of aluminum and the case is tin. I'm not sure of the date, as I couldn't fi nd any markings and the case is quite tarnished.

It may have been a promotional item for some sort of pharmaceutical or home remedy. There is a piece of newsprint lining the bottom of the case. It is stained, so I'm not able to make out anything specifi c, but the words Druggist, Greene, NY, trial dose, digestive organs, Patent Tumbler and Keeper with every $1.00 bottle along with other suggestive terms are still visible.

New travel cups of the same design are still widely available in plastic and metal and a quick online search showed some vintage or antique tumblers in sterling silver and Bakelite. Some very ornately engraved and carrying cases embossed, made of leather or decorated with beading and/or jewels.

Do you have your own Whatchamacallit?

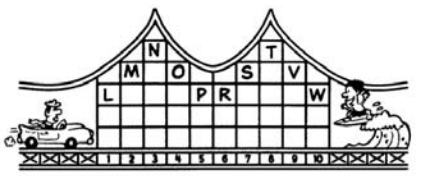
HIDDEN IN THE ABOVE FRAME is a famous proverb. Find it by reading every other letter as you go around it clockwise. The trick is finding the right first letter.

Answer: Starting with the second "I" down in the right rail: "If the cap fits put it on."

A WORD BRIDGE



The bridge above contains 10 supporting words. We give you the first letter of each word, plus plenty of hints.
