Significant tax savings for seniors: what you should know before filing your return

NYS Tax Department and Office for the Aging highlight "subtractions" for senior citizens and retirees filing NYS income tax returns

The New York State Department of Taxation and Finance reminded seniors and retirees that certain "subtraction modifications" may reduce their New York State adjusted gross income, while tax credits they may qualify for decrease the tax due or increase their refund amount.

The modifications relate to certain income included in a taxpayer's federal income tax return that may be subtracted when computing the New York adjusted gross income. The details are provided in the NYS Tax Department's Publication 36, General Information for Senior Citizens and Retired Persons.

"We encourage all seniors to review this publication that's available on our website along with other useful filing information, to help ensure that they don't miss out on valuable deductions and credits," said Acting Commissioner Nonie Manion.

Greg Olsen, Acting Director of the New York State Office for the Aging said, "Many older New Yorkers are on fixed incomes and it's important that they're aware of this publication, which can reduce their tax liability and help stretch their resources. We're pleased to join the Tax Department in getting the word out about Publication 36."

Examples of the subtraction modifications include:

- The pension and annuity income exclusion: New Yorkers 59 1/2 or older for the entire tax year may exclude up to $20,000 of qualified pension and annuity income from federal adjusted gross income when determining their New York adjusted gross income.

- Married taxpayers who both receive pension income are each entitled to a maximum pension and annuity income exclusion of $20,000, whether they file jointly or separately.

- Social Security benefits that are included in federal adjusted gross income are exempt from state and local income taxes and may be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income when computing New York adjusted gross income.

- Qualified pension benefits or distributions received by officers and employees of the United States, New York State, and local governments within New York State, are exempt from New York State, New York City, and Yonkers income taxes regardless of the taxpayer's age.

These are only a few of the many subtraction modifications listed in instructions for Form IT-225, New York State Modifications available at [www.tax.ny.gov\(search: IT 225\)](http://www.tax.ny.gov(search: IT 225)).

Be sure to follow the NYS Tax Department on Facebook and Twitter for daily news, information, and filing tips throughout the tax season.

VOTE AT:
Fort Plain Senior Center, 204 Canal Street

Citizens for Consistency, What we're about:

Quality of Life - We believe in the untapped potential of the Village of Fort Plain, and that it should be promoted as a great place to live and raise a family; with excellent schools, beautiful historic homes and quick access to the great outdoors all within an hour of the Capital District. We will assure the Village has usable, properly maintained sidewalks and streets, regular street cleaning, active recycling to keep landfill costs down, and see to the restoration of the annual village-wide junk day.

Promotion - We will partner with existing businesses to be sure they have what they need to grow, thrive and create much-needed jobs. We will also work with neighboring communities to promote and support local businesses to spur broad-based economic stability.

Beautification - We will work with the Town, County and State to address the problem of blighted and condemned buildings in a cost-effective way; making our village safer and more attractive.

Cost Savings - We believe there are considerable savings to be had in consolidating services with the Town of Minden and other neighboring Villages & Towns to reduce costs for taxpayers and plan to vigorously explore them.

Fair & Consistent Enforcement - We believe in fairness in enforcement of codes and other rules, where everyone is treated equally, but are also expected to do our part to make Fort Plain a place we all want to live.

Choice - We believe in hearing all voices, welcoming new ideas and in encouraging a healthy, broad-based dialog about the future of Fort Plain.

Transparency - Openness, accountability, and honesty define government transparency. In a free society, transparency is government's obligation to share information with citizens. It is at the heart of how citizens hold their public officials accountable. Village business such as financial statements, meeting minutes, committee & department reports, etc. will be posted on the Village website along with items such as building permits and documentation of the process that you will go through prior to improvements or repair.

Leftovers

The word "leftover" brings to mind different meanings to different people. In the culinary field, it's meaning might be potatoes from dinner creamed for supper, or hash made by a thrifty cook so that good food is not wasted.

However, if we search for another meaning, all sorts of visions come to mind. The modern trend to many Americans today is to move from place to place rather frequently. In time gone by, people were more apt to remain in one community or house for many years.

If we explore one of those long time homes we may find leftovers of a different nature. For example, far back on a seldom seen shelf, we might yet find the pancake griddle and batter pitcher put there just in case they might someday be needed. Beside them is the coffee or spice grinder whose job is long replaced by the product of the supermarket. Some of Grandmas favorite dishes are there also.

A further search of the old house brings us to the attic filled with all kinds of things carried there through the years because they were just too good to throw out, or because of an attack of nostalgia. There is an old chest there under the eaves where we can't stand up. Upon dragging it out, the cover is lifted and carefully packed within are quilts made by loving hands years ago. They were just too nice to use unless, of course, hard times had befallen the family and their use was necessary. Even then, after being faded and tattered, we might find them neatly folded and stored away.

The cellar yet held cocks, jugs, and canning jars of styles no longer used. The cider barrels and vinegar barrels still remain, unless the hoops rusted away or they were so dried that they had fallen apart. The stoneware churn, butter jars and butter bowl and paddle sit on a shelf waiting for a time that they will again serve the community. A time that will never come.

An inventory of the barn and outbuildings make the same revelations as the house. Grandpa's workbench is covered with dust and an accumulation of his tools, made by hand, to be used by hand before these tasks were taken over by power tools.

Bits of harness used on old Bess or Nell are dried and stiff hanging on a wooden peg on the back wall. Parts of a wagon wheel, laid away long ago, just in case they came in handy, survived mostly because the stove pipe on the old box stove had dropped to the floor long ago making the stove useless. Otherwise, these old wood parts would have been burned to keep Grandpa's shop warm. The grass scythe hangs there on the back-side of a ceiling beam where it was retired when a later generation got a string trimmer.

Well out of sight hangs an old muzzle loading shotgun along with its powder horn and shot pouch. It was put there long ago, the same as with almost all farms. It has long been silent, but once helped to keep the chickens and other farm animals safe from predators. Long ago the old shotgun could have been taken down by one of the boys of the family and proudly carried to the back woodlot in search of a squirrel or rabbit that Grandma would cook for supper.

We have taken only a very quick tour of the old farm buildings. What have we found? We have found leftovers now called antiques.

Country Preacher

by Pastor Dan West

On a recent trip, I was approached at a rest area by a young fellow asking for money to buy gas to get home. Now I know the Bible has more to say about money than about Heaven and Hell, but I had to stop and think what I should do.

Several verses came to my mind such as "give and it will be given unto you" (Luke 6:38), and "be wise as serpents and harmless as doves" (Matthew 10:16)

Ultimately, I could sense the Holy Spirit prompting me. As our conversation continued, it came out that he had recently accepted Christ as his Savior acquiring eternal spiritual life as I had done many years ago. Was I seeing evidence of how the Holy Spirit brings believers together to help one another, or was I being scammed by a slick con man?

Only God (and that young fellow) know, but, thanks to the Holy Spirit, I believe I made the right decision.

National Public Health week is April 3-9: Drink healthy, think healthy!

Getting enough water every day is important for your health. Water makes up two-thirds of your body weight and without water, humans would die in a few days. Every system of your body depends on water.

and women need approximately 9 cups daily. Your body needs more water when you are sick, more physically active, in hot, humid weather and if you are pregnant or breastfeeding.

Some tips to increase your water consumption include:

- Water helps your body:
- Flushes out toxins in vital organs;
- Carries nutrients to cells;
- Helps keep your temperature normal;
- Lubricates and cushions joints; and
- Helps with weight management.

- Starting your day with a drink water;
- Drinking water with meals and snacks;
- Adding slices of lemon, lime, or orange;
- Keeping water at your desk and sip throughout the day;
- Choosing water when eating out; and
- Take frozen water bottles with you for all day.

Joseph Brant's 1780 attack on Canajohary

The American Revolution Round Table (ARRT) of the Hudson and Mohawk Valleys proudly presents, Joseph Brant's 1780 Attack on Canajohary by Wayne Lenig.

This session will be held on Tuesday, April 4, 2017 at 6:30 p.m. at the Van Alstyne Homestead, located at 42 Moyer St., Canajoharie, NY.

There will be time allocated to networking, socializing and to discuss prior topics. This is a great opportunity for history enthusiasts, historians, reenactors, historic site/museum personnel and all to get together to share ideas or to discuss the American Revolution and related topics. There will also be tours of the 1730 Dutch Van Alstyne Homestead.

Original accounts of the August 2 raid began appearing in major newspapers about two weeks after the attack. A newspaper account dated September 9, 1780 stated the following: "At the fort now called fort Rensselaer (Fort Plain), Sir John Johnson and Captain Brant have burnt 51 houses, 42 barns, 17 killed, and 52 prisoners."

The incursion had been more than just a raid however. Research has shown that the Mohawk Valley attacks of 1780 were part of a deliberate British strategy to depopulate the area so that the lands could be retained after the war and thus make the Mohawk the new border between the United States and Canada.

Wayne Lenig is the museum's vice chairman of the Board of Trustees. He has had a 50 year long interest in the interplay of Native Americans, European and African cultures in the Mohawk Valley region. He holds a BA from the University of Buffalo and he is an alumnus of the Cooperstown Graduate Program.

There are no fees and no membership requirements, donations are greatly appreciated to cover related costs. RSVP to the email address provided. For further information, email arrthudsonmohawkvalleys@gmail.com or call 518-774-5669.

To your good health: Are dermatologists 'zapping' for dollars?

by Keith Roach, M.D.

Dear Dr. Roach: I am 73 years old and lived on a boat in my 40s. Now, whenever I go to the dermatologist (two to three times each year), he "zaps" me about 20 times and burns off "cancer cells" or maybe "potential cancer cells." Some of them have been cancer and were healed with MOHS procedure. While I am grateful for the care he gives me, I also sometimes feel that he zaps because each zap means more money. Can you please clarify this for me? — G.B.

Answer: I often get questions like this, where a patient has a concern that their doctor is performing unnecessary medical care for the purpose of enriching himself or herself. I always have trouble believing it, since I can't really imagine it, but I recently read about an oncologist pleading guilty to treating with chemotherapy people who didn't really have cancer, which shakes my faith in my profession (and colleagues).

Still, I truly believe that, in your case and probably more than 99 percent of the time, the doctor is being extra cautious to treat you for the sole purpose of reducing your likelihood of developing an invasive skin cancer later on.

Dear Dr. Roach: My mother lives in Florida. Her major discomfort is fatigue and no energy. I have asked her doctor to please give her a vitamin B-12 injection, even though her B-12, thyroid function, vitamin D and blood count are all in the normal range. Her doctor does not believe in B-12 injections. Do you think it might help? — J.L.

Answer: Vitamin B-12 is necessary for proper function in many tissues, but it is critical for blood cell production and neurologic function. B-12 deficiency causes an unmistakable anemia (called megaloblastic anemia) and can cause neurologic and psychiatric disturbances even in some people with no anemia. The blood test for B-12 is quite reliable. The major cause of B-12 deficiency is an autoimmune disease that prevents the stomach from making intrinsic factor, which is necessary for efficient absorption of B-12. B-12 can be absorbed orally by people with pernicious anemia by taking very high doses, such as 1 mg. This gives as good a replacement as injection.

It was common 50 years ago to give B-12 injections as a "tonic." However, it offers no advantages for people with normal B-12 levels beyond the placebo response. As I have noted many times, the placebo response can be very powerful, and 1 mg of B-12 orally is very safe.

Dear Dr. Roach: I have heard that drinking water with your meal is bad for you. Is this true? And if so, why? I have a dry mouth due to cancer treatment and must have water with everything I eat. Is something bad going to happen to me? I am otherwise healthy. — R.G.

Answer: It's not true at all. Water is, generally speaking, the healthiest drink. It is possible to drink too much water, but it's very hard to do so unless you are taking medications that affect your kidneys or you have excess anti-diuretic hormone, an unusual medical condition. Keep drinking your water.

Use your smartphone or tablet: A convenient tax filing option

Nearly 800,000 taxpayers have visited the Tax Department website via mobile device since the income tax filing season began.

The New York State Department of Taxation and Finance recently reminded taxpayers of the array of convenient features and services available to them through www.tax.ny.gov, including the ability for eligible New York State taxpayers to electronically file their income taxes for free directly from their smartphone or tablet.

"We understand that many New Yorkers are on the go and appreciate the ease and convenience of having everything they need in the palm of their hand," said Acting Commissioner of Taxation and Finance Nonie Manion. "That's why the Tax Department website is mobile responsive — it automatically adjusts to fit your device's screen — so taxpayers can use their phone or tablet anywhere to file their tax returns or access tax-related guidance."

You can use your smartphone or tablet to:

- prepare your federal and state return (for free if your income is $64,000 or less);

- request for an extension of time to file;

- quickly check the status of your refund;

- sign up for email alerts about your refund; and

- access all of the helpful information available at www.tax.ny.gov.

The Tax Department's mobile-friendly website provides taxpayers with easy navigation and faster downloads. More than 2.1 million taxpayers — including nearly 800,000 mobile users — have accessed the Tax Department's website since income tax season began on Jan. 23.

Mobile access of www.tax.ny.gov has increased for three consecutive years during the filing season. Last year during the first six weeks of tax season, 35 percent of visitors used either their smartphone or tablet. In 2015, 31 percent of visitors used a mobile device.

Check your refund

Taxpayers can quickly

view the status of their NYS tax refund anytime by using the Check your Refund tool on the Tax Department website. It's the fastest and most convenient way to know when to expect your refund. It provides the same information available to our phone representatives — only without the wait!

You can also find out when your refund will be issued by signing up for email alerts at the Tax Department's website at www.tax.ny.gov (select "Subscribe" under the "Connect with Us" heading at the bottom of the homepage).

Whatchamacallits

You probably don't think much about hotel key tags anymore. Major hotels have been using electronic room keys for decades now. I suppose some of the small mom and pop motels may still use the bulky key tag, the purpose of which is to be so obvious and bulky, you don't forget to leave it behind.

Our Whatchamacallit's this week feature a variety of different antique and vintage key tags. The large horseshoe shaped one is 4 x 3.5 inches and bears the name Wilson House (room 36), Oneonta, NY. It is fashioned after patent (No. 460,865) issued in 1891 to E.W. Hall of Whitehall, NY.

According to Mr. Hall's application, the object of his invention was to "provide a novel, ornamental, efficient, and desirable key tag having such characteristics as to permit freedom of movement of the key for the conditions required in manipulating the same and to permit the tag to hang perpendicular when the key is in the door or is hanging in the office, while the liability of the key being lost by the guest inadvertently carrying it away in some pocket is avoided without resorting to a cumbersome or unsightly construction of tag to effect this result." In other words, he made it too big to be forgotten in your pocket while still being usable and somewhat decorative.

The key tag to the right is from room No. 48 of the Hotel Wagner in Canajoharie, NY, which was built in 1878.

Spring tips for the fruit garden

by Charlie Nardozi,
Garden Consultant

Pruning, removing mulch from strawberries, and fertilizing blueberries are some of the activities in the fruit garden during spring.

Late winter and early spring is the time to order bare-root fruiting trees and shrubs if you haven't done so already. They will be shipped before they start to grow, in time for planting in your area. They will need to be planted immediately upon arrival, so plan your spot now.

Make sure when ordering fruit trees that you get at least two different selections for best cross pollination and fruiting. Some selections are listed as "self-pollinating", and not needing a partner, but fruiting usually is better with a second tree. But choose these self-pollinating ones, when available, if you only have room for one tree.

Also pay attention to the space you have for a tree or trees, and the mature sizes listed. You often can find varieties, particularly of apples, that come in various sizes. This usually is related to what "understock" or "rootstock" the desirable variety is "grafted" onto.

As soon as the buds start to swell, it's time to begin pruning apple, plum, and cherry trees. Remove any dead, diseased, or broken branches, as well as crossing and crowded branches, as well as twiggy, non-productive growth.

Plum trees should be pruned to an open center (no central top stem), while apple and cherry trees grow best pruned to a modified leader in which the center is more closed and tree is more upright (main upright stem was pruned off when planted or prior, and a second upright stem has taken its place). Modified leader pruning results in a bit more open tree, letting more light into the interior, and with stronger stems.

Spray horticultural oil on fruit trees, such as apples, plums, and cherries, to smother any overwintering insects. Choose a calm day when temperatures are above 40 degrees F, and be sure to cover all sides of the branches. You can also apply it to evergreens to control spider mites and other insects.

Carefully follow the instructions on the label for proper usage.

Check strawberry plants twice a week for signs of new growth in early spring. As soon as you see sprouts, remove the hay or straw mulch and spread it in the rows to help control weeds. A topdressing of an inch or two of compost will give plants a boost. If rabbits are plentiful in your yard or neighborhood, you may need to surround your planting with a rabbit fence.

Check apple, cherry, and other fruit trees for nests of tent caterpillars. Blast low-lying nests with water to destroy them, or knock them to the ground and destroy them. A spray of BtK (make sure to get the "K" form of this bacterial spray) will kill emerging caterpillars, but is not toxic to beneficial insects, birds, or humans.

Blueberries benefit from an acidic fertilizer each year. Apply one half pound of ammonium sulfate when the bushes start blooming, and another half-pound four to six weeks later. If the leaves turn yellow with green veins, they may have an iron deficiency. Applying two to three ounces of ferrous sulfate or iron chelate around the base of the plants will help this.

If you have red raspberries and didn't get them pruned after harvest last year, do so now. Keep in mind the summer-bearing varieties produce fruit on one-year old canes. So prune out those that fruited last year to direct plant energy into the newer canes. You can prune all canes from fall-bearing varieties, as they produce fruits on new canes at the end of the first growing season. Pruning now will direct all their energy into a bountiful fall crop.
