Why Buy Local?

Support yourself

When you buy from an independent, locally owned business, significantly more of your money is used to make purchases from other local businesses, service providers and farms -- continuing to strengthen the economic base of the community.

Create more good jobs

Small local businesses are the largest employer nationally and in our community, provide the most jobs to residents.

Get better service

Local businesses often hire people with a better understanding of the products they are selling and take more time to get to know customers.

Invest in community

Local businesses are owned by people who live in this community, are less likely to leave, and are more invested in the community's future.

Put your taxes to good use

Local businesses in town centers require comparatively little infrastructure investment and make more efficient use of public services.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

D. H. Robbins Elementary School ~ Jumping for Hearts

by Elizabeth A. Tomlin

Celebrating the American Heart Association's 35th anniversary of 'Jump Rope For Heart' was a huge event for the students at D.H. Robbins Elementary School in St. Johnsville.

The children there have collected over $2,700 in donations, with more pledges still coming in.

On Monday, Feb. 24, the Jump Rope Team, led by Coach Hillary Cool, put on a performance to remember and finalists from each grade took part in play-off competitions.

"I originally was introduced to the event when I was a teacher at Mayfield," said Cool. "When I was hired last year at St. Johnsville and realized they ran the program, too, I was excited to keep the program going!"

Cool said new activities were added to the program this year and more new events will be added each year to keep the program exciting.

The event is especially exciting for this year's new principal, Becky Marzeski, who has pledged to jump rope once for each dollar raised! This feat will be performed with the students watching and cheering her on.

"Students counted today while I jumped 700 times," said Marzeski. "I will be jumping the remaining number of times to match the dollar amount raised by our students during this week, and by Friday, I will have accomplished my promise to D.H. Robbins students!"

Cool believes it is important to teach children how to give to others and that this was a great opportunity to accomplish that.

"I am really proud of all the students at DHR," said Cool. "What these children have done for others is very encouraging to see. It leaves you with a feeling of hope."

Jump Rope team member Kristen Sanders was awarded with the "I Did My Part to Save a Heart" award for raising $100 and also designing a heart with all of her donors names on it for her 100th day of school project.

Coach Cool says rope jumping is great exercise for the children — and working to build strong hearts and other muscles is what physical education is all about.

"Students here are not just great athletes," stated Marzeski. "They are helpful citizens in society! I want the world to know how proud I am of the students at D.H. Robbins Elementary School, they have surpassed their goal, which was to collect $2,000 for The Heart Association!"

All monies raised go directly to the American Heart Association.

Jump Rope For Heart and Hoops For Heart are national education and fundraising events sponsored by the American Heart Association and the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

Montgomery County Department of History and Archives staffing should remain in place

Dear Editor:

I have read with interest but not surprise of the proposal set forth by some of our new county legislators that would adversely affect our county historian archivist. For over 65 years, I have watched the Montgomery County Department of History and Archives and those who staffed it. All too often the history of our area has held a back seat, often purely because of politics.

It might be well if we remember that what went before us is much the same as the foundation of a structure. Without that foundation, the building is found to be weaker. The department has sometimes come close to being dissolved — something which would have been tragic to those whose ancestry comes back to this historic area. I have known well those who were county historians. All too often, as the winds of politics changed, so did those who held that position. Unfortunately many of us who were involved in historic preservation sat back and said very little or nothing.

I cannot say that any of the past appointees were bad people, but I believe I can say that some did not belong in that position. I do hope that our present historian, Kelly Yacobucci Farquhar, and the staff and volunteers are encouraged and allowed to retain their positions. They have done a superb job and I am sure will continue to do so if they receive the consideration they so justly deserve from the new legislation.

Sincerely,
Willis "Skip" Barshied

Whatchamacallits

We have reached a consensus! This item was featured a few weeks ago and many of our readers recognized it as an antique ice chipper (sometimes called an ice pick.)

This four-pronged chipper was most likely used to break large ice blocks into smaller pieces. The ice would be used in everything from drinks to packaging frozen foods.

Modern ice chippers have prongs that are straight instead of curved, more resembling mini pitchforks. Many are just single pronged, like sharp letter openers.

To all of my family and friends: Thank you from the bottom of my heart for all the love and support before, during and after my recent surgery. Your prayers, cards, phone calls, flowers, food, visits and gifts were all deeply appreciated and always brought a smile to my face. It was comforting to know there was always someone here to help with all the countless chores and errands. Thank you for taking such good care of me. Your thoughtfulness has helped to speed my recovery. May God Bless all of you as he has blessed me. With Love, Linda Duesler

Did You Know???

The human heart creates enough pressure when it pumps out to the body to squirt blood 30 feet.

Every time you lick a stamp, you're consuming 1/10 of a calorie.

The strongest muscle in proportion to its size in the human body is the tongue.

RIDDLE SEARCH – "TREE" MENDOUS FUN

Look up, down, and diagonally, both forward and backward to find every word on the list. Circle each one as you find it. When all the words are circled, take the UNUSED letters and write them on the blanks below. Go from left to right and top to bottom to find the answer to this riddle: What kind of tree can fit in your hand?

Dining out still possible even if you're on a diet

Dining out at a restaurant is a treat for many people, while for others it's a way of life. On-the-go professionals often find that dining out is simply more convenient than cooking at home. However, large portion sizes and dishes that tend to contain a lot of sodium and fat can make dining out less healthy than eating at home, which is a concern for those men and women who want to shed a few pounds.

But dining out does not have to be done at the expense of your waistline. The following are a few ways dieters can still enjoy their favorite restaurants without having to worry about their weight.

- Order foods that are broiled, boiled or roasted. Foods that are broiled, boiled or roasted tend to be healthier than foods cooked in other ways. When ordering your meal, ask that oils be used sparingly if not removed completely. When foods look somewhat greasy, dab them with a napkin in the same manner you might dab the za.

- Don't fill up before your meal arrives. Once you have been seated, skip the unending bread basket, forgoing this free appetizer altogether or asking for raw vegetables instead. When fellow diners order potentially fattening appetizers, ask to have a side salad with low-fat dressing on the side instead.

- Leave a little behind on your plate. Restaurant portions can be substantial, so don't feel as if you need to finish your entire meal. You can always ask the waiter to pack up what you have left behind, or, when ordering, ask if the restaurant offers smaller portions at lower prices.

- Skip the dips and dressings. Many condiments can add unwanted calories to a meal, making even a healthy entree a calorie-laden meal that's best avoided. For example, a salad covered in creamy Caesar salad dressing can take away from the overall nutritive value of the salad. Don't be afraid to ask for sub-to have dressings put on the side so if you must indulge you can do so without going overboard.

- Eat in the hours leading up to your dinner. Low-fat snacks eaten throughout the day will reduce the likelihood that dinner table. Drink a tall glass of water and enjoy some low-calorie fruit so you won't be famished once you arrive at the restaurant.

- Avoid buffet-style restaurants. Many people cannot help but overeat rants, where the size of a typical spread can make it hard for dieters to stay disciplined. If you must eat at a buffet-style restaurant, choose healthy fare like salad and steamed vegetables.

- Look for a low-calorie menu. Many restaurants now supplement their existing menus with a menu of low-calorie fare for those customers who want to eat out but want to do so without abandoning their diets. When visiting a restaurant, stick to ordering from the low-calorie section of the menu. The food will likely be just as delicious, though not as dense or as large.

The danger of smoking while driving

Using a cell phone, texting and drinking alcoholic beverages are all activities that can lead to fines or arrest if done while in a moving vehicle. But in some areas, it is already illegal or may soon be, to smoke in a vehicle if in the presence of children.

Since 2006, several communities across North America have implemented laws to prevent smoking in cars when children are present, and campaigns for smoke-free car laws are poised to continue.

The public has become increasingly aware that there is no safe level of exposure to secondhand smoke. Secondhand smoke, also known as environmental tobacco smoke, includes the smoke that a smoker exhales and the smoke that comes from burning tobacco products. Thousands of toxic chemicals are present in secondhand smoke, including formaldehyde, lead, butane, cyanide, and carbon monoxide. These dangerous chemicals can be inhaled and tend to linger in the air for hours or longer. Smoke residue also clings to a smoker's body and hair and can even surface inside of a home or vehicle, according to The Mayo Clinic.

Asthma, heart disease and cancer may result from contact with secondhand smoke. When someone smokes within the small enclosed space of a car, passengers are exposed to air that is many times more toxic than what the EPA considers hazardous air quality, even if a window is down. What's more, the particulates of tobacco smoke that are absorbed in the upholstery off-gas back into the air even after many days have passed, exposing riders to toxins well beyond when someone smoked in the car.

The developing bodies of children and their small stature put youngsters at risk for greater complications from cigarette smoke, although any passenger is at risk.

Laws vary depending on location and typically apply to children ages 16 and under. Smokers are urged to quit smoking for their health and the health of others. But those who continue to smoke should refrain from smoking when inside a vehicle, especially when children are present.
