*At that time Jesus said, "I praise you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and learned, and revealed them to little children. Yes, Father, for this is what you were pleased to do."

Why Buy Local?

Support yourself

When you buy from an independent, locally owned business, significantly more of your money is used to make purchases from other local businesses, service providers and farms -- continuing to strengthen the economic base of the community.

Create more good jobs

Small local businesses are the largest employer nationally and in our community, provide the most jobs to residents.

Get better service

Local businesses often hire people with a better understanding of the products they are selling and take more time to get to know customers.

Invest in community

Local businesses are owned by people who live in this community, are less likely to leave, and are more invested in the community's future.

Put your taxes to good use

Local businesses in town centers require comparatively little infrastructure investment and make more efficient use of public services.

Hello Again,

Let's play around with some everyday words and see where we end up.

Often we greet someone with "What's new?" New seems to be a word we use on a daily basis, never thinking about what it means or did mean at one time. As an example, what would you think if I said I'm writing this Hello Again to you in old New York? Isn't this state too old to be referred to as "new"? What ever happened to Old York or Old "New" Jersey, Old "New" England? Were we ever "Old Yorkers"?

How old or how new is a nearly new used car? Cars that were built in the 50's and 60's are advertised as "like new." We all agree the word "new" is preferred over the word "old" or "better." Which would you choose as a gift? - a new car or one that is better than your old car?

Speaking of the word "better," I was at a funeral/viewing recently and I overheard a lady whispering, "Doesn't he look good? He's never looked better." I'm not in a hurry to have those words whispered about me. (He's never looked better.) I doubt that anyone will say, "He looks deader than a door nail, doesn't he?" On the other hand, I doubt they will say, "He looks better than new."

When a widower gets married again, can you imagine the newspaper, in the marriage announcement section, referring to him as used, slightly used, or nearly new? Maybe more accurately as nearly used up? How about gently used or "second time around" or "around once more"? I guess some words are better off not being used.

Chatting about the proper or not-so-proper use of words, my mother, father, early school teachers and other adults cautioned on using swear or even slang words. One day I commented that the minister's wife slipped on the ice near our school and landed on her butt – thinking back should I have not used the slang word "butt"? Possibly, butt was the better choice.

We could spend the remainder of our day playing with words – good words, sad words, understated words, misunderstood words and someone could find a swear word which they feel fits better – enough said.

One last shot – how about the word "taste"?

How could a non-English speaking person understand the word "taste"? Would the following help?

- I don't like the taste of chocolate.
- She has great taste in decorating.
- They sure have peculiar taste.
- I prefer the taste of Hoffman's hot-dogs, etc.

Now let's add a little blarney, just for confugalty (confugalty is not found in the dictionary):

A newly wed couple traveled to Africa for their honeymoon. The groom was studying to become a pastor of a church. While traveling in the backcountry, they met a fierce head-hunting tribe. Through an interpreter, he asked the tribe chief, "Do your people know anything about religion?" The chief's teenage son spoke up and said, "We had a taste of a missionary a while ago."

Last winter while we were in Florida, it was so cold up here in the Mohawk Valley, Grandpa was asked, "Were you so cold last night that your teeth chattered?" "I can't honestly say," Grandpa said. "We don't sleep together."

I have always thought I would like to own and operate a manufacturing business. It always seemed producing a product which was common to this area would be just great. How about an overstuffed, wind-up teddy bear that doesn't work?

A reader said he always enjoyed Hello Again but recently has missed the Irish blarney, so here is a touch of truth and part blarney – My son Mark, who is at least half Irish, his mother was a true-blooded American-Dukes mixture, now lives on the family dairy farm. Our farm was known for Red & White Holsteins and big mosquitoes.

He and his wife had the old dairy barn razed, resided the house, installed a new kitchen, and purchased several rolls of chicken wire – you know, the kind with big holes.

I complimented them on all of the new 'fixins' but questioned the rolls of chicken wire. "What's all that wire for?" I asked. "You going to keep chickens?" "Nope," he said. "That's to keep those big mosquitoes out."

Mr. Fischer, an Amish reader of Hello Again stopped into our office and asked "Where is the red three-wheeler?" I said, "I'm driving a car today – it's supposed to rain and the red three-wheeler has a hole in the roof." He sort of set me back when he said, "Are you a sissy?" I was tempted to sneak out front with my pocketknife and cut a few holes in the roof of his buggy. Thanks Mr. Fischer. Keep on reading. It was good to meet you.

The Irish may be accused of playing around with words a little bit and the accusers might be right – at least part of the time. But on the other hand – an evangelist preacher, when pumped up with the good attendance at one of his preaching services said, "We had a wonderful crowd here last night – we didn't quite reach 300."

He was right. They didn't – they didn't reach 200 either. That was not considered blarney, it was merely helping out the truth a little bit.

A founding father of our country and first president, George Washington, said no one can possibly lead the country without the help of God.

Do you honestly think that great man was wrong? Can anyone lead their marriage or family without the help of God?

Continue waving when you see the little red Spyder rumble by. It sure tickles this ole American's heart. Will I learn you were in church with your family on Sunday? If you do, it will tickle the Lord's heart too.

Fred Lee and the Lee Family

P.S. Soon Grandma's Kitchen in Canajoharie will become famous – Grandma's Kitchen is now the undisputed home of the Hugh-Giant Irish Pancake. Extra thin – browned to perfection. Extra large – and sooo Irish tasting.

If St. Pat had found Grandma's Irish pancake, he would have immigrated to Canajoharie. If you don't try one soon, the shame of it will be on your own shoulders.

See if you can taste the secret ingredient.

Empowerment Fashion Show features “Sammy D.”

by Elizabeth A. Tomlin

More than 125 attendees packed into Linda's Consignment Shop in Fort Plain on June 12 to hear motivational speaker Sammy D and to view the area's first fashion show featuring local guys and gals modeling “second hand clothes”.

Linda Scaffidi-Fonti, owner of the establishment, recalls how the event became a reality.

“One afternoon I stopped in to visit my friend Michele McGlone at her shop Emotional Outlet in Canajoharie. We discussed how we both felt the need to inspire and empower our young people, because they will be our future leaders. What better way to inspire and empower our youth than to have a fashion show with an empowerment theme?”

In addition to the fashion show, Scaffidi-Fonti and McGlone formed the plan to bring in Debby Haviland of Canajoharie modeled a summer frock for a crowd of over 125 at the Empowerment Fashion Show held at Linda's Consignment Shop in Fort Plain.

Brian Matis of Canajoharie modeled men's clothing for the Empowerment Fashion Show held at Linda's Consignment Shop in Fort Plain.

Samantha “Sammy D” Davis, entrepreneur, blogger and motivational speaker, to make a presentation at the show.

The 28-year-old Davis, with a reported following of over 17,000 subscribers, has been featured several times in national media, including USA Today.

“I am a second hand evangelist!” Davis told the audience during her presentation. “Second hand shopping saved my life!”

Davis explained that she had risen from a Pennsylvania schoolgirl to an editor at Esquire magazine with the help of a wardrobe purchased at second hand stores. “It wasn't about what I looked like, it was about how I felt. Second hand shopping allowed me to thrive!”

Davis believes in “positive affirmations” and shares daily affirmations to followers by social media including ‘You Tube’. “The power of positive thinking creates the life you've always imagined and were born to have!”

Twenty-five novice models, including the young and senior citizens, all appeared extremely empowered in their outfits on the runway under colored lights.

Show manager Laura Habeib, came in from New Jersey to work with the models.

“I was very happy to work with all the models and help them showcase their wonderfully individual personalities,” Habeib commented.

“Everyone can be unique,” said McGlone. “Fashion and style are our medium.”

An “Empowerment Party” was held after the show.

This event was supported by local businesses. Special thanks goes out to all models and volunteers and to Richard Brown of Dome 49 for “the delicious cannoli” he supplied.

Elizabeth Collins of Fort Plain modeled summer wear.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Strange But True

by Samantha Weaver

• It was Danish physicist Niels Bohr who made the following sage observation: "The opposite of a correct statement is a false statement. The opposite of a profound truth may well be another profound truth."

• It was in 1954 that the first TV dinner was introduced.

• When Walter Chrysler started his own automobile manufacturing company in 1925, after having been employed by Buick and the Overland Motor Company, he insisted that all of the cars turned out by his company be oversized. It seems that Chrysler was a large man and wanted to be sure he could fit comfortably into any of the models produced in his name.

• You might have heard that the band on the doomed ocean liner Titanic played music on the deck while the ship sank. But you probably don't know what song they were playing at the very end. According to witnesses, it was a popular British waltz called "Autumn."

• If you're planning a trip to Sweden, keep this point of law in mind: In that country, it's illegal to teach a seal to balance a ball on its nose.

Thought for the Day: "Luck is the residue of design." — Branch Rickey

Whatchamacallits

This household item is what is known as a trivet. Trivets are still in use in homes everywhere, everyday — but a lot of people don't know that this nifty gadget has a special name!

Trivets are flat metal racks or plates placed on dinner tables beneath hot dishes to act as a barrier between the dish and the table. The goal is to avoid damage to the table's surface. They typically have three legs, which is where the name trivet comes from.

Trivets are available countless shapes, sizes and designs. In this case, we see a heart-shaped trivet. It was found in Stone Arabia, NY, and undoubtedly saw use during many family dinners and holiday celebrations.

Tips for Buying Merchandise at Auctions

Cost-conscious shoppers may want to consider auctions before making their next big-ticket purchases. The opportunities for deep discounts abound at auctions, where shoppers can find all types of products, homes, cars and furniture.

According to a comprehensive study commissioned by the National Auctioneers Association, more than half of the U.S. population has attended a live auction. Around 83 percent of respondents said auctions are an exciting way to get good deals. Not only can auctions be a way to get great value on items, but also they can be entertaining to attend. Three-quarters of auction attendees bring the entire family along.

Although auctions offer a vast array of merchandise for sale, men and women attending an auction should do their homework before making any bids. Whether you're bidding on seized property, used cars or livestock, the following tips can help save you some money.

- Get to know the market. When preparing to attend an auction, men and women should study up on any items they're looking to purchase. This helps gain a better understanding of the current market rates and what is a high or low price for an item. You likely won't know what a good deal is without first doing your homework.

- Sign up for alerts. Research the various auctions and sign up for their mailing lists so you are alerted when something you might be interested is hitting the auction block.

- Do a dry run. It might help to visit an auction even if you don't plan to buy anything. This allows you to get a feel for how fast things move as well as the methods for bidding. Being informed can eliminate mistakes due to nerves or misinformation.

- Set a budget. Establish a budget before walking through the auction doors and stick to it. It's easy to get carried away in the heat of bidding, and you do not want to overspend. After all, your goal is to save money.

- Don't bid on items you can't afford. Ensure your finances are in place so you can afford the items you bid on. Depending on the auction, you may need to leave a deposit and then complete the deal within a certain period of time.

- Purchases are typically "as-is" and final. Auction sales are generally final. You may bid on sight-unseen items and will be responsible for making repairs or accepting the item in its current condition.

Did You Know???

New York State is home to the Finger Lakes. There are 11 lakes total. Native American lore says the long, thin lakes, which resemble fingers, were formed when the Creator reached down to bless the land and left his handprint in the Earth.

The Finger Lakes include Canadice, Canandaigua, Cayuga, Conesus, Hemlock, Honeoye, Keuka, Ontario, Otisco, Owasco, Seneca and Skaneateles. Although located nearby, Oneida and Onondaga lakes are not considered to be part of the Finger Lakes.

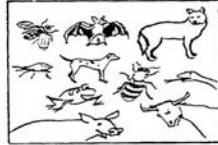

Seneca is the deepest and widest Finger Lake. Keuka is know for its distinctive “Y” shape.

WHEEL DEAL! You are asked to place the numbers five through 10 in blanks of the wheel at right so that the sum of the amounts in any two adjacent spoke-segments total the same as the sum of the two adjacent numbers diagonally opposite. Each number is to be used just once.

LIBRARY CARD! A prankster purposely mixed up the first and last names of four famous authors, thusly: William Iwain, Mark Dickens, Charles Defoe, Daniel Shakespeare. How quickly can you unscramble them?

SHOW AND TELL EXERCISE

NAMES of 10 creatures shown above are missing from the familiar expressions below. X's indicate the number of letters in each creature's name. How quickly can you find them?

1. XXX in a bonnet.
2. XXX in a belfry.
3. XXX in a poke.
4. XXX in a manger.
5. XXX in the ointment.
6. XXXX in the throat.
7. XXXX at the door.
8. XXXX in one's ear.
9. XXXX in a china shop.
10. XXXXXX in the grass.

Remember, all 10 creatures are pictured. Time limit: 2 minutes.

TIP OFF! His hat is a tip to the identity of the person who's missing from this picture. Who's that? Add a dot to get to the top!

BANNER DAY! July 4 is a banner day in more ways than one. Add colors by the numbers: 1—Red, 2—Lt. blue, 3—Yellow, 4—Lt. brown, 5—Flesh tones, 6—Lt. green, 7—Dk. brown, 8—Dk. blue.

SPELLBINDER

SCORE 10 points for using all the letters in the word below to form two complete words:

TRAVELOG

THEN score 2 points each for all words of four letters or more found among the letters.

Try to score at least 50 points.

Possible twooms: 'Vot, gear.

Did you know?

According to the National Sleep Foundation, a short nap of 20 to 30 minutes can improve alertness and performance without creating feelings of grogginess or interfering with nighttime sleep. A NASA study that examined sleepy pilots and astronauts found that those who napped for 40 minutes improved their performance by 34 percent.

While napping can be beneficial, napping can have a negative impact as well.

For example, those who nap too late in the day may struggle to get a decent night's rest later that night, when the length and quality of sleep may not be as long or as strong as it would had they not napped so late in the day. Men and women who find themselves suddenly need naps despite no obvious cause of fatigue should consult their physicians, as this might be indicative of a sleep disorder or another medical condition.

Helping your car keep cool in warmer weather

(NAPSA) — Whether it's a vacation road trip or your daily commute to work, when the temperatures climb higher on the outside, things are also heating up under the hood of your car.

Fortunately, there are several preventative steps you can take to keep your engine running cool. Here are some tips that can help to keep you on the road to safety and convenience.

- Check your battery. If you have an older vehicle or you've had your battery for more than three years, you should have it tested. While it is common to hear of car battery failure during the cold winter months, heat is just as hard on your battery. Warmer temperatures can evaporate battery fluid, causing damage to internal plates and speeding up corrosion.

- Top off or change fluids. Engine fluids are a key component in keeping your car running during the summer months. When fluid levels are low, the cooling effect is decreased and could result in overheating. Check your vehicle fluids including motor oil, transmission fluid, power steering fluid and brake fluid. Refer to your owner's manual for recommended fluid type.

- Check engine belts and hoses for cracks and wear. Look for leaks and feel to determine if the hoses are firm and pliable. Pay special attention to places where hoses are connected and clamped. Do not attempt to touch any hoses or belts after you have been driving your vehicle, as they will be hot and could cause burns and serious injury.

- Cool your engine. Your engine works extra hard during the summer and relies on the cooling system to protect it from overheating. To keep your cooling system in good working condition, you should flush your system and replace the coolant as recommended by the manufacturer. Engine coolant can become contaminated and its protective additives can lose their effectiveness.

Hot summer temperatures can be hard on your battery so it's important to check for corrosion.

June is National Dairy Month

National Dairy Month started out as National Milk Month in 1937 as a way to promote drinking milk. It was initially created to stabilize the dairy demand when production was at a surplus, but has now developed into an annual tradition that celebrates the contributions the dairy industry has made to the world. After the National Dairy Council stepped in to promote the cause, the name soon changed to "Dairy Month."

Dairy products like milk contain nine essential nutrients which may help to better manage your weight, reduce your risk for high blood pressure, osteoporosis and certain cancers. Whether it's protein to help build and repair the muscle tissue of active bodies or vitamin A to help maintain healthy skin, dairy products are a natural nutrient powerhouse.

Those are just a few of the reasons that you should celebrate dairy not just in June, but all year long.

Source: International Dairy Foods Association

Outdoor restaurant dining tips

When the sun comes out and the breezes are warm, blooming gardens and trellis-covered restaurant patios can be ideal dining spots to grab a meal. Good food combined with a hearty dose of fresh air can make everything from a cappuccino to a hamburger taste better.

Considering the best outdoor-dining spots can fill up quickly, and enjoying a meal outside takes a bit of finesse, follow these tips to make the most of any outdoor-dining experience.

- Make a reservation. Outdoor seating is not always easy to get. To ensure you will have a spot at your favorite restaurant, call ahead and reserve a table. Otherwise, you may have to wait quite a while for a table to become available or be forced to sit inside.

- Scout out restaurants beforehand. If you are hoping to try a new restaurant that boasts outdoor dining, plan a visit to see the layout of the space. Unless you want to spend your meal with pedestrians walking by or inhaling car exhaust fumes, visit the restaurant ahead of time to ensure that the outdoor seating is more amenable to an enjoyable meal.

- Choose restaurants with overhead coverage. It is one thing to want to eat outdoors, and entirely another to be subjected to the wrath of Mother Nature. An outdoor seating area should be comfortable, offering the best blend of fresh air and ample protection from the elements.

- Don't assume an outdoor restaurant is pet-friendly. Just because there are outdoor tables does not mean you can bring your pooch along. If you will be spending the day with your dog and then want to enjoy a lunch or dinner outdoors with your pet, verify that a restaurant is pet-friendly before meal time.

- Expect some uninvited guests. Dining outside means bees,

Good food combined with a hearty dose of fresh air can make everything from a cappuccino to a hamburger taste better.

flies, birds, and other animals. Those who are deathly afraid of all buzzing insects may want to eat indoors instead.

- Check for a dedicated outdoor waitstaff. Waiters may not realize you are outside, and it can be easy to forget about patrons who are not seated in the heart of the restaurant.

Restaurants accustomed to serving guests outdoors will have staff assigned to outdoor seating areas, particularly during busy times of the day.

How to find the right wedding photographer

Long after the final toast has been made or the last couple has left the dance floor, wedding photos will help couples relive the wonderful memories of their ceremonies and receptions.

Wedding photographers realize the important role photography plays in a wedding. Photos are how couples document their nuptials, and the right photographer can make all the difference. The following tips can help guarantee a successful wedding shoot and beautiful photos to recall the best moments of the day.

- Seek referrals. There are scores of wedding photographers, and some are better than others. Word of mouth from other couples can help. Referrals can offer insight into a photographer's personality and his or her abilities to work with the wedding party and guests throughout the day.

- Communication is key. An important component of wedding photography actually starts well before the wedding day. The way a photographer communicates with you about your wishes and desired shots is very important, as this is when to discuss specific shots you want taken during the ceremony, such as whether the bride wants to be seen and pose with the groom prior to tying the knot.

- Choose a photographer who is confident and firm. A good photographer will be able to direct photo subjects and get everyone to participate and in line.

- Prepare a shoot list. Meet with the photographer before the wedding and provide a list of all the shots you absolutely need to get. This way the photographer can plan for these as well as capture the candid moments throughout the day.

- Discuss a backup plan with the photographer. Mishaps happen, even on the most carefully planned wedding day.

Discuss what the photographer does to safeguard your digital photo files. Understanding how the

As we moved into our home we found that the roof needed immediate repair. It was in bad condition and with the winter ahead of us, no time to waste.

We had about eight quotes, one of them was from Swarey Roofing. At our first meeting we were very impressed at how well this company quoted this project.

A lot of possibilities were presented to us with an extreme sense of professional information. We felt very comfortable with Swarey Roofing right from the start. We decided to go for a metal roof. After the appointment was made it took them two days to put a beautiful roof on our home. They not only deliver high quality products but their skills and knowledge are also very recommended. We got a lot of compliments from neighbors. We have received several phone calls from Swarey Roofing after the job was done to ask us how the roof was holding up after some heavy rain had hammered the roof and we were happy to say... perfect!!!! This is obviously a company that cares about their product and customers alike.

If you, your family or friends need a roofing job done, consider Swarey Roofing. I am sure you will be happy with your roof as much as we are.

Thank you for doing such a great job at a very affordable price.

Honeymoon planning made easy

Weddings are one-of-a-kind occasions. Weddings also tend to be stressful, even for the most laid-back people. But a honeymoon gives the couple a chance to enjoy uninterrupted moments together and serves as a way to recuperate from the months and sometimes years of wedding planning.

Honeymoons are a beloved wedding tradition, and some couples even combine their weddings and honeymoons by opting for a destination wedding. Because the honeymoon should be a way to unwind on a dream vacation, booking the honeymoon and setting an itinerary should not add to the pressure of planning, and the following tips should make planning a honeymoon a snap.

- Research your destination. Learn all you can about a destination before booking your honeymoon. Study the weather for the time of year you will be on your honeymoon, and learn about currency exchange, local rules and regulations and other pertinent factors to determine the best places to visit. You do not want to be met with surprises that might compromise your trip upon arriving to your honeymoon destination.

- Book well in advance. The sooner you choose your destination, the faster you can begin the process of applying for passports, visas or other necessary documents. Booking early also guarantees you better seats on the flight and the ability to negotiate pricing.

- Give yourself a full day between the wedding and embarking on your trip. Scenes of couples being whisked away to the airport right after the reception dwindles down are commonplace. But that doesn't mean you need to leave right after the final dance. Allow some breathing room to pack, deposit wedding gifts, return tuxedos, and tackle any other post-wedding tasks. Save the romantic "first night" as a couple for the honeymoon and enjoy a well-deserved night's sleep.

- Purchase travel insurance. One way to alleviate the stress of planning a wedding is to ensure your honeymoon investment is protected in the event of bad weather or other unforeseen circumstances. Travel insurance is a safety net that can come in handy.

Speak with a travel agent or insurance agent about how to secure travel insurance for the honeymoon.

- Pack light. Don't burden yourself down with a lot of belongings. Chances are you'll pick up new things and mementos on the trip, and packing light makes traversing airports that much easier.

The way a photographer communicates with you about your wishes and desired shots is very important.

Photographer from A3

unforeseen situations can make you feel more confident in choosing one photographer instead of another. The camera gear should also have adequate memory to store all of the photos, and a few backup batteries can't hurt, either.

- Consider hiring a photographer's assistant or second shooter. The photographer is less likely to miss a shot or fail to capture various perspectives of the wedding if he or she works with a partner. While one photographer is doing close-up portraits, the other may be capturing candid moments from onlookers from another angle.

- Know what each package includes. The photographer should clearly spell out which items and services are included as part of the contract.

- Get to know the photographer as a person. It can be difficult to loosen up in front of the lens, particularly if you do not have a good rapport with the photographer. Do not judge the photographer on his or her body of work alone. You will likely grow more comfortable with the photographer if you get to know him or her in the months leading up to your wedding.

Eight vehicles earn top rating for collision warning

by Dee-Ann Durbin, AP Auto Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The 2014 Chevrolet Impala was the only non-luxury car to earn the highest safety rating in new tests of high-tech crash prevention systems.

The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety tested cars equipped with collision warning and automatic braking systems. It gave a "superior" rating to cars that both warned the driver of a potential collision and applied the automatic brakes to significantly slow the cars.

The BMW 5 Series, BMW X5, Mercedes-Benz E-Class, Buick Regal, Cadillac CTS, Cadillac XTS and 2015 Hyundai Genesis also earned "superior" ratings in the test results released in May.

Collision warning and automatic braking systems use cameras, radars and lasers to determine if a vehicle is getting too close to the car in front of it. Most of the systems warn the driver — audibly, with vibrations in the seat, or both — and prepare the brakes to maximize their effect when the driver presses them.

In some cases, the vehicles brake themselves. That action may not prevent a crash, the institute said, but reducing the speed before the car hits something can help make crashes — and injuries — less severe.

The Impala's rating wasn't affected by a government investigation of one driver's report that the automatic braking system went off several times without warning, eventually causing an accident. Insurance Institute spokesman Russ Rader said the group is aware of the investigation but had no issues with the Impala in testing.

The Arlington, Virginia-based institute, which is funded by insurers, began testing and rating the systems last fall in hopes of pressuring automakers to adopt them as standard equipment. The institute said 40 percent of 2014 models now offer forward collision warning as an option, while 20 percent offer automatic braking. Acura, Mercedes-Benz and Volvo offer the systems as standard equipment on some cars.

Tests are conducted at 12 miles per hour and 25 miles per hour. In the highest-rated cars, the brakes slowed the cars to 2 or 3 mph or less.

Thirteen 2014 models earned "advanced" ratings, meaning they warned drivers but their brakes reduced the speed only moderately. Those vehicles were: the BMW 3 Series, Buick LaCrosse, Lexus IS, Audi A3, Audi A6, BMW 3 Series, Dodge Durango, Lexus GS, Mercedes-Benz CLA, Infiniti QX50 and Infiniti QX70. The BMW 5 Series and BMW X5, which won superior ratings when equipped with a radar and camera, earned "advanced" ratings when equipped with City Brake, a camera-only system.

Three models earned "basic" ratings, meaning they warned drivers of a potential collision but reduced the car's speed by less than 5 mph. They were: the BMW 3 Series (without City Brake), the Infiniti Q70 and the Toyota Avalon.
